

Tuesday, 27 October 2009

Paper	Page (s)	Headline/Summary
The Age www.theage.com.au	8	Many teachers unqualified for their subject More than half of Victoria's secondary schools have staff teaching subjects they are not qualified to teach, according to an Australian Education Union survey.
The Australian www.theaustralian.com.au	1	School heads to get more control – Federal proposal State education departments should hand control of school finances and the power to hire teachers to principals and school boards, reversing a century of bureaucratic stranglehold over the running of schools.
	2	Diverse cultures fall silent in curriculum The national school curriculum fails to acknowledge the cultural diversity of Australian students, despite the fact that in five years about half will be immigrants or their children, according to a University of Technology, Sydney professor.
	2	Three in five high schools have teacher problems (See The Age , pg 8).
	13 Editorial	Power to principals Schools best managed by local leaders, not distant officials.
Financial Review www.afr.com
Herald Sun www.heraldsun.com.au	20 Letters	Family fails to treat head lice
	42 Learn Lift-out (LL)	Tackling cyber-bullying National teen newspaper, S-press , has partnered with the National Youth Mental Health Foundation, headspace, to fight cyber-bullying.
	42 (LL)	The best way to deal with stress Rosie Hoban finds out from author and psychologist, Su Dorland, how students and parents can prepare for VCE exams.

